

Award-winning author of Icefields
Thomas Wharton

a finalist in Canada Reads (2008), will read at TransCanada Institute
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 3, 2012 12:00 PM

Thomas Wharton's first novel, Icefields (1995), won the Writers Guild of Alberta Best First Book Award, the Banff Book Festival Grand Prize and the commonwealth Writer's Prize for Best First Book, Canada/Caribbean division. His second novel, Salamander (2001), was short-listed for the Governor-General's Literary Award, and for the Roger's Fiction Prize. The Logogryph (2004), a collection of his short fiction, was shortlisted for the International IMPAC Dublin Award.

Light luncheon.
Register at transcan@uoguelph.ca

